WASHINGTONVILLE LOCAL GLEANINGS

By Peter M. Herold.

Boost long and hard for the new pottery.

Most farmers in this locality have finished sowing wheat. Quite a number from here attended the Lisbon fair this week.

Glenn Smedley and Clifford Davis of Sharon, Pa., were here Saturday. Under the license law this town can have only one saloon. And we have that one.

The Lisbon fair has been well attended from this section. A very good display is reported.

Several Masons from here attended the special session of Perry Lodge in Salem last Friday night.

Michael Holland is assisting at the Erie and Y. & O. station during the absence of Mont. Welkart.

Mrs. Clara Waggle, who was taken suddenly ill Friday evening with cerebral poisoning, is slowly improving.

H. H. Calvin and family left Saturday for Pittsburgh to visit relatives several days and attend the Exposition.

Frank Bilger secured a position in the finishing department of the Salem Tool Co., and started to work Monday.

Special Sunday tickets on the Y. & O. R. to East Liverpool and return are on sale during the Billy Sunday meetings.

John Blind, the miner who was killed by a fall of slate in the Shriver mine near New Albany last Friday, was well known here.

P. M. Herold is still enjoying his outing in Carroll county, which will account for any shortage in Washingtonville news this week.

The Bull Moores of this county have endorsed the republican candidates for county offices, hence will have no county ticket in the field.

At the congregational meeting of the B. V. Lutheran church Sunday morning it was unanimously voted to accept Rev. Luther Gross as pastor.

Washingtonville should have a football team this season. In this sport few towns in this county have anything on Washingtonville in years ago.

The school year of this district opened Monday morning with a full attendance. The first day was spent in promoting and re-arranging of the rooms. The new building is expected to be completed by Jan. 1.

The Leetonia poultry association exhibit at the Canfield fair was a winner, taking 33 points out of 41 entries. Another exhibit will be given at the Lisbon fair this week. Local fanciers are members of this association.

Owing to the disagreement as to the wage and hours of the pan feeders at the clay plant the place has been idle the past several days. The adjustment of the wage will be made through the mine worker officials in a few days.

Mail notices from the campers at Muzzy lake state that the fishing is the best ever and expect to begin shipments here soon. The season is also on the advance mark.

Part of the bunch is keeping this part of the menu at low prices.

Prosecutor Metzger holds that as the bids for county funds by several banks were opened on a legal holiday same is illegal and void. It will be necessary to again bid for bids.

This bank pay low rate of interest for the inactive funds of the county.

John St. Clair, an aeronaut who made a parachute jump at Leetonia last Friday during the carnival, was badly hurt when he alighted on a high tension wire of the Y & O lines. His back and legs were terribly burned. He was hurried to a Pittsburgh hospital for treatment.

The primary department of the M. E. Sunday school, Saturday evening, in Mrs. Baker's building. The proceeds will be devoted to Sunday school betterment. Let a goodly number of people attend the sale, enjoy the luxuries, and help a good cause along.

Tom L. Lewis, who has been at the head of the United Mine Workers of America, has been chosen by the republican state committee as candidate for secretary of state to take the place of J. L. Sullivan of East Liverpool, who resigned to accept a similar place on the Bull Moose ticket. Mr. Lewis is well known in this locality and will be largely supported by the miners.

Mrs. Nellie McGinley of Leetonia, visiting her brother, Mr. J. Monahan in Youngstown, attempted suicide last Saturday by shooting herself three times with a 22-calibre revolver. She was hurried to a hospital where it was said her wounds are serious.

Seven years ago Mrs. McGinley had a sister killed by the cars in Leetonia and she has since been afflicted with long spells of despondency. It is supposed that while brooding over the tragic death of her sister she attempted to take her own life.

The dedicatory services for the fine new Methodist church in this village were held Sunday, beginning with the Sunday school service in the morning and ending with a most impressive dedicatory service in the evening at which Rev. W. B. Winters of Alliance, district superintendent, preached and presided. The Sunday school exercises were featured by an address by President W. H. McManis, of Mt. Union college, on the subject "Worship and Service," and by special solo numbers by Misses Thelma Bossert and Elizabeth Simpson, and recitations by Misses Lena Atkinson and Selma Senior.

In the afternoon a love feast was held followed by the sacrament, and in the evening the regular dedicatory service was carried out according to the ritual of the church. A deficit of $300 on the cost of the sacred edifice was left without embarrassment. Miss Helen Thorpe sang a special solo at this service, which was attended by Rev. C. W. Smith of Salem, Rev. Giffin of Leetonia, and Rev. Moore of Columbiana, in addition to the hundreds of members of the church and their friends who were present at every service.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. William Tetlow, Monday, a daughter.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Harry McNeil, Wednesday a daughter.

Dr. DeWitt C. Moore of California, arrived yesterday and friends here the past week.

The pottery fund is still growing and the amount is sure to come and so is the pottery.

Elmer Indermill and Joe East are employed on concrete work for F. L. Stouffer near Homeworth.

Mrs. Matilda Johnson is not able to leave her home on account of infirmities of age being in her 89th year.

The Columbiana street fair is the next outing for the people of Washingtonville to enjoy, and the usual number from here will attend.

At the regular meeting of the Washingtonville Co-operative society committee members, auditors and stock takers were elected for the coming year.

The Christian Endeavor society will hold a pumpkin-pie social in Allen's hall Saturday evening, Sept. 28. This is the first of the season. Everybody welcome to the good time.

Mrs. R. E. Schaffner has received a fine line of autumn and winter millinery which will be sold at very reasonable prices. The ladies of Washingtonville and vicinity are cordially invited to call.

The Pythian Sisters is the one lodge in this place to enjoy a good time. At their last meeting it was found sweet cider was in the home of one of the members and after a glass of the cider to sip the first of the season.
